

Principal Clark, age 55

Principal Clark is a strong African American man. He believes in treating all people fairly, kindly, and equally.

Principal Clark is the leader of the school and he has an emotional attachment to his students. Although he is “hard as nails,” he cries easily and wears his emotions on his sleeve.

Principal Clark is smart, hardworking, honest, and loved by everyone in the school. His students know they can come to him with any problem they have, however they also know that he is not to be played with by any means.

Principal Clark is everyone’s “dad” at Sykes Elementary.
